

WorleyParsons – Enterprise Development in the Construction sector

WorleyParsons
resources & energy

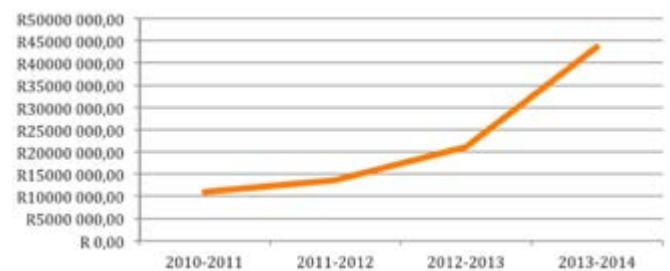

WorleyParsons partnered with LEAP to establish a programme that integrates small black-owned businesses into their broader industry networks. After a rigorous selection process, WorleyParsons handpicked ten of the most promising small businesses from LEAP's extensive database and conducted individual needs assessments.

With the aim of providing the foundations from which each business can expand its network, WorleyParsons' ED programme provides entrepreneurs with office space, internet and printing facilities, transport, personal assistants, and business coaching and mentoring.

WorleyParsons encourages long-term growth by offering round-the-clock assistance with procurement, sales and marketing, budgeting, tender applications, accounting, administration, as well as financial and legal advice.

What they say about LEAP

"We have no doubt that LEAP's hands-on mentorship and involvement in the day-to-day business operations of our selected beneficiary companies has had a meaningful impact on the success and sustainability of these companies. We have seen some of these beneficiaries being successfully integrated into our supply chain, providing them with new business opportunities and growth. LEAP's contribution has resulted in the realisation of our vision to successfully develop small businesses, which leads to job creation and, inevitably, the growth of our industry and the South African economy."
